In the claims:

Add the following additional new claims 54 to 183 to the application. For the Examiner's convenience, these added claims are incorporated in the attached pages numbered 1 to 42.

Delete the existing claims 2 to 53.

REMARKS

This preliminary amendment adds new claims and deletes the existing claims. Many of the new claims find correspondence with deleted claims 2 to 53. This amendment of the claims has, however, been made so that the claims, as presented for Examination, have their dependencies sequentially numbered.

As to the amendments to the specification, it is submitted that these do not add new matter as they correct typographical errors and/or exemplify the description of the invention. In particular, the changes to the description on page 14 corrects a discrepancy in the description itself and between the description and Figure 5.

Further, Applicants are submitting, together with the new claims, a "Claims Outline" listing all the claims under one of seven primary categories. This Outline is submitted for the convenience of the Examiner and is intended to be of assistance to the Examiner in analyzing the claims and in examining the application. It should, however, not be seen as an admission by the Applicants that claims in a specific category are to be limited exclusively to such category. Nor should this outline be taken as the final word in interpreting the scope of the claims. Accordingly, the Examiner is requested to use this outline merely as a guide and to give the claims the broadest possible interpretation during the examination procedure.

Finally, the Examiner is asked to make these amendments before this application is examined.
